Hobbies or Interests: I love to read. I also love to hang with friends and just fellowship. My wife and I love to travel and try new things from food to fun. Other than that, we are really just laid back and try to enjoy whatever God sends our way.

What makes you a good candidate to coach a New Church Planter? My history as a church planter is bittersweet. I have learned to plant through planting. I have received much instruction through trial and error. Since we started the church we have been blessed by numerous counselors that have been there for us giving us lots of instruction and encouragement. I have a deep longing to help make the journey a lot less complicated for others going down this path. In addition to that, I have (and continue to) read many books and have attended many conferences on planting and have grown to love it more and more. Coaching will provide me with an opportunity to help bring clarity and direction to all new planters so that they can enjoy it all the more.
